

The van belonged to International Stores, High Street, Aylesbury which carried a large range of household goods to outlying villages from Aylesbury. The driver standing by the vehicle was a Dinton man named John Tapping who lived in Ostlers Cottage, Westlington. On the outbreak of war John became a paratrooper in the 6th Airborne Division and unfortunately died when his glider crashed as it was crossing the Rhine in Germany towards the end of the war. Photo courtesy of Pam Jeffrey

